

The 2016 Holly's Way Chardonnay is from the cool Central Coast growing regions where warm weather allows for a long growing season for nice ripe grapes, tempered by the ocean breezes to keep the wine fresh. A key component from the Santa Lucia Highlands lends zippy acidity to balance the weight and texture of the wine. Vinification and elevage in stainless steel tank with a small portion that underwent malolactic fermentation and brief aging in barrel.

Holly's Way possesses charming aromatics of pears and apples with an underlying citrus cut. The subtle oak regimen is apparent on the palate with hints of vanilla along with subtle tropical notes which are complimented by the streak of acidity that runs through the wine. A versatile Chardonnay for an array of tastes & cuisine.
