SAUVIGNON BLANC

Hailing from the Lake County appellation, where Sauvignon Blanc thrives on the region's plains, slopes and ridges with its loam/clay/gravel soils.

This is a warm growing area, with super clean, crisp and clear air. That purity, coupled with the elevation – vineyards generally are at about 1,000 feet and higher – exposes grapes to unusually intense sunshine. And Sauvignon Blanc loves to take the heat.

As such, the grapes arrived in pristine condition and little more than straightforward vinification and elevage in stainless steel was done. No malo, no oak - just clean and simple.
